DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because Fig 4, in particular the signal displayed is illegible. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over AAPA in view of Everett et al., US 6,069,607.

In considering claims 1-3 and 7,

As disclosed by applicant, prior art (Fig 2) displays a vector form illustrating the NTSC converted signal which is derived from a chrominance/luminance component signal (meeting the 1st/2nd color different component signal, the luminance component as a luminance component of a composite and the generated color component from the 1st/2nd color difference).

However, as stated by applicant, the diagram is a vector display and thus not one dimensional.

The use of a bar graph (one-dimension), pie chart or line display are options which are typical/conventional options in displaying relationships between/of variable(s).

Although, this concept is notoriously well known in the art, the examiner will rely upon Everett, which illustrates the concept that you can display a bar graph, vector, waveform and video onto a signal display (Fig 5).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify AAPA which discloses the concept of display the signals in vector form, by also providing the display in a single dimension (i.e. bar graph) based upon the type of display the user desires.

In considering claim 4,

The use of different color for the amplitude values is a mere design choice, since the use of similar colors or not is a visual tool preferenced by a user and thus provides no unexpected results regarding their use.

In considering claims 5 and 7,

As shown in AAPA (Fig 2), the display includes units to display the region (from a min to max) the values pertaining to the displayed vector. Thus the use of scale marks corresponding to a min or max acceptable value and range in accordance within a standard are conventional options for a viewer/user in designing/viewing a graph/chart, since the material plotted/charted shows a relationship between a corresponding scale and the data plotted with respect to it.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure—see newly cited references on attached form PTO-892.

Art Unit: 2622

(<http://pair.uspto.gov>) provides customers direct secure access to their own patent application status information, as well as to general patent information publicly available. EFS allows customers to electronically file patent application documents securely via the Internet. EFS is a system for submitting new utility patent applications and pre-grant publication submissions in electronic publication-ready form. EFS includes software to help customers prepare submissions in extensible Markup Language (XML) format and to assemble the various parts of the application as an electronic submission package. EFS also allows the submission of Computer Readable Format (CRF) sequence listings for pending biotechnology patent applications, which were filed in paper form.
